U. S. SMELTING IS TO OWN THE E. &amp; P. RAILWAY

FILES SUIT FOR JUDGMENT ON NOTE, WITH FORCLOSURE INDICATED.

That the United States Smelting, Refining and Mining company is about to take over the Eureka and Palisade railroad is indicated by a suit filed in the district court at Reno for judgment on a note for $24,663.45.

The complaint recites that the railroad company executed a note on March 22, 1910, payable one day after date; it is alleged that the note remains unpaid, and the mining company now asks judgment for the sum named and costs.

The Eureka and Palisade Railway company owns a line connecting the mining camp of Eureka, Nevada, with the main line of the Southern Pacific at Palisade. The Richmond Eureka Mining company for several years was the principal shipper over that railroad, the ores from its mine having been forwarded to the United States company's smelter in Utah.

The railroad was last spring nearly wiped out by floods. The company was in such bad financial condition that it was unable to raise money with which to rebuild the line. The loan was made by the Richmond Eureka company, or the United States company may have been intended as advanced freight charges to help the railroad company "out of a hole."

The suit which has been brought is believed to be intended to give the United States company title to the railroad property, and that with that attained it will reconstruct the line and operate it until the debts shall have been cleared, when it will reconvey it to the railroad company. The United States company needs the Eureka ores at its smelter on account of their fluxing qualities.

WILL THERE BE A RAILROAD WAR?

SIGNS POINT TO KEEN RIVALRY BETWEEN WESTERN PACIFIC AND THE S. P.

There is some evidence that the Western Pacific and Southern Pacific are to be real rivals for the trade of the Pacific. Lately Toyo Kisen Kaisha, a big Japanese steamship line, operating ships between Asiatic and California ports, has parted company with the Pacific Mail Steamship company, a Harriman concern, and has served notice that it will co-operate with the Western Pacific road on transcontinental business, says the Ogden Standard.

This indicates a well matured plan on the part of the Gould people to go after the trans-Pacific trade and it is so bold a move as to call for a counter move on the part of the Southern Pacific, and, perhaps, lead to intense rivalry.

The Western Pacific shows some signs of greater financial strength, which may be explained on the theory that Hill or other big interests are now back of that road.

A contest for the trade of the Pacific would be a radical change from the present railroad situation on the coast. There has never been anything approaching a railroad war to disturb the serenity of railroad life in this part of the United States. From Ogden to San Francisco, or to Southern California, or the Northwest shippers have had no choice of routes or rates. With the Western Pacific growing as bold as a buccaneer on the high seas, capturing steamship lines and defying the Harriman people to retaliate, the Southern Pacific may be provoked into a contest.

PULL OUT PIPE FROM OIL WELL

BAY STATE COMPANY READY TO MAKE A FRESH START IN DRILLING.

After working for five months to recover a string of tools and a 19-foot length of 4½-inch casing from the bottom of the well, the Nevada Bay State Oil company has at last succeeded in its efforts, and resumed drilling. The tools were pulled out of the casing about a month ago, and the casing was recovered last Monday. The casing shows that the last twenty feet of the hole was crooked which caused the difficulty in pulling out the pipe.

When the hole was cleared it was then filled in for about twenty feet with small rocks, which will aid in re-drilling and straightening it. This work will necessarily proceed slowly and cautiously until the danger point is passed, and drilling will then proceed more rapidly. J. T. Minchen, manager of the company, is as confident as ever of eventually striking oil in commercial quantities and is also greatly relieved of the burden of anxiety which he has faced during the long period of difficulties that have now been overcome.
